DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-43, drawn to a system for information distribution comprising a request subsystem and a response subsystem, classified in class 707, subclass 04.
 - II. Claims 44-55, drawn to a system for information distribution comprising a database structure, a server configured to receive a request and software application providing for comparing said search attribute with said listing attributes associated with said listings, classified in class 707, subclass 03.
 - III. Claims 56-61, drawn to a method for transmitting information in the form of a response to a request, calculating a position adjustment factor, classified in class 705, subclass 37.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions (I) and (II) are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination are separately usable. In the instant case, invention (I) has separate utility such as information distribution comprising a request subsystem and a response subsystem; whereas invention (II) has a different utility and scope, comprising a database structure, a server and software application performing such functions as receiving a request, comparing said search attribute, selectively identifying a subset of listings and ordering said subset of identified listings. Because these inventions are distinct, the search required for Group I is not required for Group II. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Inventions (I) and (III) are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination are separately usable. In the instant case, invention (I) has separate utility such as information distribution comprising a request subsystem and a response subsystem; whereas invention (III) has a different utility and scope, comprising transmitting information in the form of a response to a request, calculating a position adjustment factor and using the position adjustment factor to influence the position of the listing associated with the factor. Because these inventions are distinct, the search required for Group I is not required for Group III. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. See MPEP § 806.05(d).
4. Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination are separately usable. In the instant case, Invention (II) has a different utility and scope, comprising a database structure, a server and software application performing such functions as receiving a request, comparing said search attribute, selectively identifying a subset of listings and ordering said subset of identified listings, whereas Invention(III) has separate utility such as comprising transmitting information in the form of a response to a request, calculating a position adjustment factor and using the position adjustment factor to influence the position of the listing associated with the factor. Because these inventions are distinct, the search required for Group II is not required for Group III. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

5. The examiner has required restriction between subcombinations usable together. Where applicant elects a subcombination and claims thereto are subsequently found allowable, any claim(s) depending from or otherwise requiring all the limitations of the allowable subcombination will be examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. See MPEP § 821.04(a). Applicant is advised that if any claim presented in a continuation or divisional application is anticipated by, or includes all the limitations of, a claim that is allowable in the present application, such claim may be subject to provisional statutory and/or nonstatutory double patenting rejections over the claims of the instant application.

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
